Papal traffic snarls are expected

Officials urge patience for those attending

By Val McDowell
Staff writer

While Pope John Paul II's visit does not include stops in Illinois, Metro-East motorists will be affected almost as much as their St. Louis neighbors.

At a meeting Wednesday in Collinsville, Illinois State Police offered guidelines for those using bridges and highways during the event, in efforts to make the experience easier.

District 11 Commander Charles E. Brueggemann said Illinois travelers need to prepare for the congestion.

"The historic papal visit is sure to draw visitors from all over the country," he said.

"The eyes of the world will soon be on the region. We want to do our part to make the operation run as smoothly as possible."

One of the most important things travelers should know is that the Martin Luther King Bridge will be closed for 24 hours.

"We will close the bridge at (See TRAFFIC, Page 3A)

Each year, the winter brings the largest congregation of bald eagles in the lower 48 states. Above, a lone bald eagle rests on the ice in the middle of the Mississippi River. Venice's McKinley Bridge bond plans hit snag

Preliminary study shows traffic doesn't justify funding request

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Plans by the city of Venice to borrow money to pay off bonds and make repairs to the McKinley Bridge have hit a snag.

A preliminary traffic study report shows that the bridge does not have enough traffic to justify the amount of money city officials want to borrow.

The city recently hired CBB Inc. of St. Louis to perform a traffic study on the bridge at a cost of about $56,900.

At Tuesday's City Council meeting, Mayor Tyrone Echols said the preliminary results were "not looking bright," and that December totals showed bridge traffic is actually down about 1,200 cars per day from the previous year.

December traffic totaled 9,919 vehicles per day, a decrease of 1,259 from the previous year.

"The projection is that we can't do the things we'd like to," he said.

Another long-term factor is the proposed new bridge across the Mississippi between the McKinley and Martin Luther King bridges.

"We know that's going to hurt us," Echols said.

The mayor had hoped to borrow up to $15 million to pay off the present bonds on the bridge, then combine that money with federal and state grants to perform up to $21 million in repairs.

Early last year, Echols said that without a major repair project, the deck on the western side of the bridge would probably fail within five years.

If that happened, Echols said he would probably be forced to close the bridge.

The city has already defaulted on approximately $4.3 million in bonds on the bridge that came due Oct. 1. The city has been negotiating with bondholders and has proposed tripling the bond interest to 6 percent.

Echols said he still hoped that the traffic study would show they could undertake some kind of repair program.

IDOT District 8 Engineer James Easterly talks about upcoming and ongoing road projects during the monthly Granite City Rotary Club prayer breakfast.

Easterly: plans need funding

Area IDOT engineer discusses roads at breakfast

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

While a billion-dollar plus budget sounds like a lot, for the Illinois Department of Transportation it is not going to be enough to keep up with all the state's needs.

At the monthly Granite City Rotary Prayer Breakfast, IDOT District Engineer James Easterly talked about the agency's plans for the next few years.

"We have more needs than we have revenues, there's no doubt about that," he said. "Our current budget is about $1.1 billion (statewide) per year. We believe that's going to go up because of additional federal funding, but we're not sure if that's going to be enough to address the needs of Southwestern Illinois."

He said the additional money comes from last year's federal highway funding bill, which was not completed by the time IDOT's budget was prepared. He said the federal funds will provide about $200 million each year in additional revenue.

About 45 percent of all IDOT funding goes to the Chicago area. Easterly said proposals to increase that to around 50 percent would be a disaster for the downstate districts.

"We usually get somewhere around $80-$100 million per year for highway projects," he said.

Two of the major projects now under way are the new Mississippi River Bridge and the relocated Illinois 3. Easterly said the first phase of engineering is ongoing for both.

"We have the money in our program to go ahead with our next phase of engineering, that's where we actually put our plans together," he said. He said that phase should begin next year.

"It takes about three years," he said. "We also have money for land purchase and environmental clean-up."

"We still don't have any construction dollars," he said. "We're hoping that if we can be ready in time, we can get special consideration during the next federal highway bill."

Other projects now under way or funded he talked about included ongoing work on the Poplar Street Bridge

Three Granite Citizens arrested in Missouri burglaries

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A series of convenience store burglaries in rural Missouri may have seen the work of a trio of Granite City residents.

Bernard P. Barth, 25, of the 3200 block of Carlson; Cameron S. Crockrell, 30, of the 2500 block of Grand; and Michael Consiglio, 30, no address given, were arrested Tuesday and charged with one count of burglary after Barth drove their vehicle into the Meramec River while trying to escape from police.

The three are in custody in Crawford County, Mo., with bond set at $100,000 each.

Later that night, police from several different Missouri agencies accompanied Granite City police in a search of Crockrell's home, where five convenience store safes were found.

On Wednesday, police were also examining a sixth safe that had been recovered by the Madison County Sheriff's Department several months ago.

Maj. Kip Pomeroy of the Granite City Police Department said a task force of Missouri officers had been working on the case, which had involved a series of burglaries.

The three suspects were arrested after being spotted by officers following a gas station burglary.

According to police reports, at about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday, the Crawford County Sheriff's Department was notified of an alarm at a service station in Leasburg, Mo.

A Sullivan, Mo., police officer observed a vehicle matching a description of the suspect vehicle heading east on the Interstate 44 service road.

Police officers chased the vehicle until the driver lost control while attempting to drive around the gate of Meramec Caverns State Park. The car went down an embankment at a high rate of speed, through the campground area and into the river.

As the vehicle started to float downstream, three people got out and attempted to swim for shore.

Barth was captured almost immediately, while Crockrell was apprehended about 100 yards downstream. Officers continued to search for the third suspect and had called out the Missouri Water Patrol and local fire department rescue squads.

At about 11:45 a.m., a Franklin County deputy stopped Consiglio walking along a county road.

You may be our next sweepstakes fraud victim!

New laws would protect consumers from contest scams

By Sen. Dick Durbin

"You're our next million-dollar winner!"
"You've already won $5 million!"

Most Illinoisans would recognize these lines as the special language of direct-mail sweepstakes.

Along with winter snowstorms, we are currently being hit with a mail-box blizzard of these familiar solicitations.

We've all heard the holiday lyrics "Tis the season to be jolly," but when it comes to the millions of sweepstakes in the mail, it's always the season to be cautious.

While many companies have used sweepstakes responsibly — typically to promote the sale of magazines, books or other products — others have bilked consumers out of millions of dollars by falsely suggesting a purchase is necessary to qualify for the sweepstakes or to increase the odds of winning a prize.

Other deceptions have included packing sweepstakes solicitations to look like government documents and promising recipients that they have already won even though the fine print reveals minuscule odds of winning. Companies also have bought and sold so-called "sucker lists" of people who have fallen for their scams.

The elderly are particularly vulnerable to sweepstakes fraud. Some senior citizens sweepstakes recipients have traveled thousands of miles to claim prizes they thought they had been assured of winning. Others have spent thousands of dollars on magazines and other merchandise because they thought it would help them win.

That's why I am working with my Senate colleagues to propose bi-partisan legislation to give the U.S. Postal Service more authority to protect consumers. I have supported, and will continue to support, measures that direct the U.S. Postmaster General to issue regulations governing sweepstakes mailing that provide for clear disclosure of contest rules of odds of winning.

I also support increased penalties for violating current postal statutes prohibiting fraud.

Consumers also can fight fraud by carefully reading sweepstakes solicitations. Recipients should remember that no purchase is necessary to participate, a purchase does not increase the odds of winning and the odds should be stated on the sweepstakes material.

If a sweepstakes claims that "You're our new winner" or "You've already won," check the fine print, because it's probably not true.

Consumers who think they have been a victim of a deceptive sweepstakes practice should contact their local postmaster, call the toll-free postal crime hot line at (800) 654-8896 or call the National Fraud Information Center Hotline at (800) 875-7060.

"It has no effect on me. It doesn't matter one way or the other. I don't watch basketball."

"I guess it is time. He set out to certain things and did them. Still, I think his team (the Chicago Bulls) will be great."

"It's time he retired. He is a great ballplayer, and I think the Bulls will miss him. Still, they are one of the best basketball teams of all time and I think they will continue to be."

Is this what solitary confinement is like?

The dead of winter a sure way to create cabin fever

Of the first 12 days of January, seven-and-a-half of mine were spent alone — a prisoner in my own home — and, like others in the same sorry boat, I'm slowly recuperating from the ravages of cabin fever. Climbing walls is not my favorite exercise.

Initially, the prospect didn't seem too bad. By New Year's Eve afternoon, I'd heard the weather predictions, to which my first reaction was a typical mix of the optimist's half-filled glass and a healthy shot of cynicism.

"What do those guys know? They're usually wrong!" But, on second thought, I made a beeline to the grocery and stocked up.

Friday and Saturday weren't bad. Holiday decorations packed away for another year, caught up on laundry, delinquent correspondence addressed, finished reading one book and halfway through another, TV limited to evening news. But, by Sunday, the place was simply too quiet. The sound of a ringing phone was like the Hallelujah Chorus.

There's nothing more deafening than the sound of silence. I decided Sunday. Salvation, as always, from the Count and the Duke (though I sure didn't need "Solitude"). Bechet, Blakey, and Brubeck (my "three B's"), Joe Williams, Billy Eckstine, Ella and Cleo, Dinah W. and Billie. That cheered me up enough to attempt a useful task, a search for a snapshot of myself, taken circa '40 or '41, as requested by a Houston friend who needs it to fill in a gap in a snapshot of our old crowd, purpose unknown to me. "I'd prefer you standing, as there's room for you next to Ella Jane, but a head shot will do. I can stick it in between Fran and Sue. Size doesn't matter." I'm missing, she says, because I was the photographer.

Thought I know exactly where to look, a good shot of myself and my brother, from the exact period. Fifteen minutes later, gave up on that one, when I discovered something I'd conveniently forgotten. That sometime during the past year on a visit home, my daughter had decided to while away a dull afternoon by "reorganizing" my (admittedly) haphazard collection of photos (covering at least three to four generations and some folks I don't remember ever knowing). End result is four huge cardboard boxes, stashed in a back bedroom closet.

"Reorganized" isn't a word I'd choose. Neater, maybe, but this is a job for another time. By Monday, I knew exactly how guys doing life without parole in a maximum security prison must feel. Come hell or high water, I'm getting out of this joint! And thanks to two young neighboring couples, I got both in and out, up and down, the hillside.

Don't knock young people to me.

"By Sunday, the place was simply too quiet. The sound of a ringing phone was like the Hallelujah Chorus."

Before week's end, I was again in solitary, this time glued to TV news and weather, desperately hoping for some good news, something cheerful, and instead learned Wednesday evening that the NBA lockout was over and that there would be a season after all, albeit a shorter one. Damnation, I'd hoped they'd have to cancel!

To add to my frustration over this happy ending for the argument between millionaires and billionaires, were the man-in-the-street interviews with joyful fans, like the assembly line worker whose empathy lay with the players and who viewed the agreement as a victory for them, "them" being

"you know, guys like me!" Duh. The icing on the cake, though, was the "Dateline" interview with a highly unrepentant Mike Tyson, who against all reason and common sense is being allowed to fight again, and who denies wife abuse and rape, figures Holyfield "had it coming" when Mike chewed off part of his ear, and doesn't care if he ever pays the IRS the $12 million in back taxes he owes. And promised to continue to be his old obnoxious self. I can't take much more of this stuff! And spring is still over two months away.

Forneris reacts after sale of McGwire's 70th home run ball

Tim Forneris had the time of his life last fall when he became an instant celebrity after retrieving Mark McGwire's record-setting 62nd home run at Busch Stadium.

The St. Louis Cardinals part-time groundskeeper from Collinsville had no qualms about returning the ball to McGwire, who broke Roger Maris' 37-year-old single-season home run record. The ball was almost immediately placed in the National Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., the place where Forneris believed it rightfully belonged.

Last week came the flip side to Forneris' story. Phillip Ozersky, an employee at Washington University in St. Louis, received $2.7 million for the ball that McGwire hit for his record 70th homer. Good old capitalism at its finest.

"It feels gratifying that all our efforts paid off," said Arian Ettinger, president of Guerney's auction house in New York, which sold the ball to a yet-to-be-named buyer. "There were comments made to us by members of other leading auction houses, who sort of scoffed at the notion that somebody would pay $1 million for a baseball."

Forneris, more than a casual observer, wasn't surprised at the price tag.

"There was an offer of $1 million over the Internet, and I had heard the ball from $1 million to $3 million," Forneris said. "I thought it would lean toward the high side."

Despite the instant wealth Ozersky is receiving, the 22-year-old Forneris still has no second thoughts about giving the ball to McGwire without attaching monetary value to it.

"I really don't know how much I could have gotten for the ball," Forneris said. "To be honest, I really don't want to know. So what if I got a million dollars or whatever for the ball. Some may have said that would not have been enough. As far as I'm concerned, the ball is priceless and will stay that way because I didn't sell it."

At the same auction, the ball Sammy Sosa hit for his 62nd homer went for $15,000. Sosa's 66th and final home run of the 1998 season went for $150,000. McGwire's 67th and 68th home run balls were auctioned for $80,000 each, his 44th for $27,000 and his 16th for $20,000.

Forneris is convinced he did the right thing. He received a lot of admiration for what he did. He's not begrudging Ozersky for his payoff.

"He did what he thought was right," Forneris said.

By chance, Forneris said he bumped into some of Ozersky's friends who said his life was a bit rattled after he retrieved homer No. 70.

"About a week after the homer, he had to get out of town. I was told by his friends," Forneris said. "The attention was too much for him. I guess. I haven't talked to him but I would like to know what his life has been for the last four months."

Forneris knows what his life has been like.

"This will be the closest I'll be to being a major league player," he said. "A lot of neat things have happened to me, which I'll always remember."

One of those things is that Forneris is in the Hall of Fame—sort of.

"After McGwire hit his 70th homer, Steve Peeler (Cardinals head groundskeeper) had me sign the bases," Forneris said. "I signed my name and put No. 62 below it. This helps to authenticate the bases. Of course, you'll probably never see my signature when you see the bases at Cooperstown but at least I know it's there."

Break on for SWC

The Southwestern Conference boys basketball teams got their separate ways this weekend, taking a brief hiatus after last week's developments.

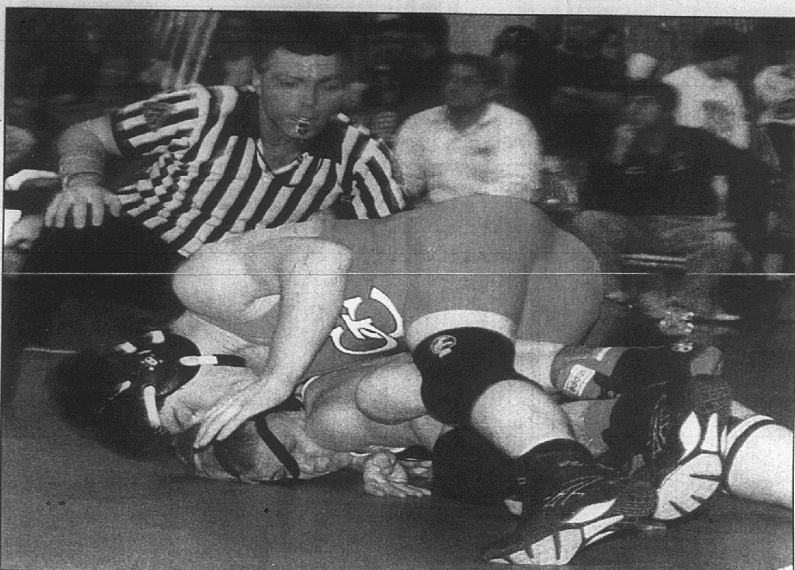

East St. Louis pinned the first conference loss of the year on Belleville East last weekend.

This week, Belleville East is hosting a tournament with Belleville West among the eight teams in the field.

East St. Louis, meanwhile, travels to Chicago Marshall for a game Friday.

Collinsville hosts Hazelwood (Mo.) West at 8 p.m. Saturday. Edwardsville and Granite City are playing in the Salem Tournament, which ends Saturday.

Warriors place second at Geneseo

TIM STEPHENSON/Press-Record

Granite City's George Kirgan finished third at 160 pounds in the Geneseo Tournament. The winner of the event was New Lenox, with 283 points. Granite City scored 179½, followed by Moline (163½), Mount Carmel (150½), Iowa City (150) and Pleasant Valley (117).

Garland pleased with team's effort in runner-up finish

The Granite City wrestlers didn't win the Geneseo Tournament, but they did a rip-roaring job to finish second against some of the Midwest's toughest competition.

PREP WRESTLING

"I think we did great," Granite City coach Mike Garland said. "The Geneseo Tournament is the toughest tournament we wrestle in all year. Some weight classes are even tougher than the state tournament. We beat two nationally-ranked teams, Mount Carmel (of Illinois, ranked fourth in the nation) and Iowa City (of Iowa, which is ranked fifth). We beat three teams who were ahead of us in the state poll. Mount Carmel was second, Moline was fifth, Iowa City was the best team in Iowa. They are ranked No. 1 in the state. So to go into this tournament and wrestle the way we did, I thought was great."

The winner of the event was New Lenox, with 283 points. Granite City scored 179½, followed by Moline (163½), Mount Carmel (150½), Iowa City (150), Pleasant Valley (117), Cedar Rapids, Iowa (112) and Dixon (100½). Rounding out the field were Belvidere (77½), Chicago Heights (77½), West Des Moines, Iowa (59), Geneseo (54½), Potosi Hills Stag (49) and Rich East (40).

"Everybody wrestled great," Garland said of his Warriors. "I can't say enough for how the kids wrestled. We didn't have any champs, and that

Janek enjoys participating in Rose Bowl

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Chris Janek, a 1986 graduate of Granite City High, had a great seat for the final Rose Bowl game of the century.

Janek is a noseguard on the Wisconsin Badgers defense, which held the explosive UCLA Bruins relatively in check en route to a 38-31 victory on New Year's Day in Pasadena, Calif. The game annually matches the champion of the Big Ten and the Pac Ten when either of the teams does not play in the national championship game.

"It was awesome," Janek said. "It was real sunny, a lot better than the weather is here. It was just great. It was a great experience. It hasn't really sunk in as much, but as the days go by, it starts sinking in more, how big of an event it is. They categorize it with the Super Bowl and the World Series and the NCAA Final Four. It's a big event.

Granite City grad plays for Wisconsin Badgers

"It's nice to win it, too, real nice. We were nine-point underdogs, we weren't supposed to win it at all."

The game went to the wire, with the Badgers always wary of UCLA's firepower.

"They are full of trick plays, but they didn't do as good as I thought they would," Janek said. "They are not a real tough team, they are more of a finesse, California-style team, a Pac Ten team."

Not surprisingly, the Badgers burrowed through the Bruins behind running back Ron Dayne's massive attack—27 carries for 246 yards and four touchdowns.

"Oh my God," Janek said, "he almost broke the record for the Rose Bowl, he was only one yard away from it, he had four touchdowns. It was neat, that will help him next year for the Heisman because he decided to stay."

"Everyone was saying how bad of a team we are all year, just talking bad. We had no respect the whole year and here's UCLA, all year going for the national championship (until a loss to Miami, Fla., late in the season), and we beat them. It says a lot about how we play. We play hard-nosed football."

The Badgers got to contemplate the new year on the sun-drenched Pasadena, where they were treated like undergraduate heroes.

"It was kind of surreal," Janek said. "We were all celebrities out there basically. It was just a great time. We went to Universal Studios, to Lowery's Best Bowl. It was great, I can't say enough about it."

Travel has been one of the perks of playing big-time college football.

"My freshman year we went to

Granite City center Debra Aaron (43) and her teammates have a tough challenge Friday night with rival Collinsville.

Granite City set for rematch with Kahoks

First meeting did not go well for Warriors

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

In a season of multiple positives and certain growth, in an atmosphere of general enthusiasm, Granite City's 59-31 loss to Collinsville sits like a rank piece of chalk scribbling a capital "L" on an otherwise clean slate.

The Kahoks' frontcourt tandem of Autumn Dow and Amy Loftus combined to score 35 points and hinder the Warriors' ability to get off shots.

Granite City gets its chance for redemption this Friday night at home.

"Defensively, we have to stop Dow and Loftus," Granite City center Debra Aaron said. "We have to change around our defense. Offensively, we have to work the ball around more and take more outside shots."

"They are on good team, but I think I can beat them," guard Della Moore said. "I just hope we can come out and win. We have to play harder and more as a team. We have to stop their big girls from scoring in the paint. We need to shoot and get Debra and Jess (Wallace) the ball, even Jan (Shanfelt) and Erika (Todd). That way everybody gets the chance to shoot, because anybody can be on at any time."

"Collinsville is just huge," Granite City coach John Mead said. "Nobody in the area can match up with them. Belleville West matches up with them all right, but with Loftus and Dow in the paint, they make it tough on teams."

"We did not play very well at their place last time and we know we can play better. I think we have to get the game a little more up-tempo or we are going to be in trouble again. If we slow the ball down and let them get in their half-court offense we are going to really be in trouble. The faster-paced we can get the game, the better our chances will be. We have to try some different things against them. We have to shoot better, of course. We didn't shoot very well against them last time. We have to be more active offensively. We are quicker than they are, we know that. We have to use that and be more active, we can't just be standing around again. Somebody has to come step-up and take the shots over those girls and not be timid. I think that was part of the problem last time, we were a little timid against them. We didn't get enough shots and when we did get a shot they were waiting it back at us. We have to come back more aggressive than that."

Earlier this week, the seeding committee met to determine placement for the regional tournament in February.

"We were seeded ninth, but I'm not sure, exactly who we are going to play," Mead said. "It looks like we might have a chance to play Jerseyville, but it would be at Jerseyville. They just beat Taylorville at Taylorville by a point and Taylorville got the No. 1 seed. Collinsville beat Jerseyville by 20 at Jerseyville, so that shows you where Collinsville is, so that shows you where they are playing very well."

"You have to put East St. Louis above everybody else in a class by themselves (in the Southwestern Conference), but I think Collinsville is right there at the head of everybody else. They are going to be tough to beat in the regional. That was Loftus' first game back against us and she is going to get better. That makes Dow better, since she doesn't have to shoulder the whole load. I don't want

Bird watchers line the Mississippi River Shore at the Riverlands Environmental Demonstration area in West Alton, Mo.

Eagle watch 1999

Birds and bird-watchers flock to the Mississippi

Story, photos by Scott Cousins

In addition to snow and ice, drivers along the Great River Road north of Alton have another obstacle to avoid: eagle watchers.

With recent cold weather icing up the river, large numbers of American bald eagles can be seen along the Mississippi River, especially near the dams.

Eagles congregate near the dams because the open water below gives them excellent feeding opportunities.

Last year, eagle watchers were somewhat disappointed because warmer weather scattered the birds.

For the uninitiated, the best way to spot eagles is to look for other groups of people stopped along the river for no apparent reason, pointing and looking out into the middle of nothing.

On closer examination, what appears to be a black lump on the ice is actually a resting eagle.

Bald eagles mature and develop their distinct head covering at about two years. Immature bald eagles have dark-colored head feathers.

Once the eagles start showing up, so do the people.

"We've been out here for about an hour," said David Hasty of St. Louis.

He and Nancy Rolfe, also of St. Louis, were sitting on the guardrail along the River Road, using binoculars and a camera-spotting scope to watch a single eagle perched on the ice in mid-channel.

"We're looking for some good pictures," Hasty said. "I have a friend who's an artist and he wants pictures he can work with."

He said eagle watching has been good this year.

"We were here last week and they were all over the place," he said.

Joe and Sherri Mashburn of Maplewood, Mo., had spent Saturday driving up to Grafton and back toward Alton and planned to make another trip up to Grafton before calling it a day.

Joe Mashburn said they moved to the area from Texas last year and seeing so many eagles in one place was a treat.

"In Texas there are only one or two places to see eagles," he said. "This is great because they're so close and there are so many."

Normally during the winter, there are a higher concentration of eagles in the area than any other part of the U.S. outside of Alaska.

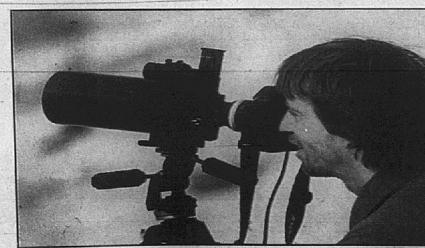

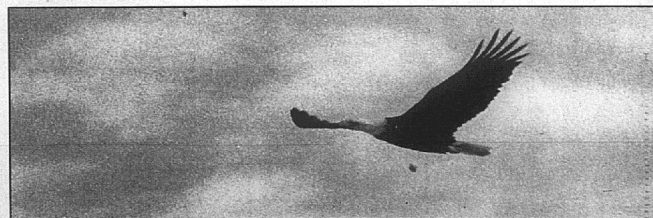

The eagles usually start showing up in November and stay until March. The last week in January and first week in February are considered prime eagle-watching times.

On Feb. 6-7, Trailnet Inc. is sponsoring an eagle watch on the old Chain of Rocks Bridge in Madison.

The bridge will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. both days and there will be warming tents and spotting scopes available.

Representatives from the World Bird Sanctuary will also bring eagles so people can see the birds close-up.

Parking is available on the Missouri side of the bridge.

David Hasty of St. Louis uses a camera mounted on a spotting scope to photograph a single bald eagle resting on ice in the middle of the Mississippi River.

'Rip Van Winkle' on BAC stage

Children's Series opens Wednesday

There is only one place where you can find a headless horseman, juggling, puppets and a storybook quartet: Belleville Area College's 1999 Spring Children's Series.

The Children's Series programs, a set of four educational entertainment performances designed for children ages 4-10 and their families, opens Wednesday with "Rip Van Winkle and The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" by the Imaginary Theatre Company on Jan. 27.

Also scheduled in the series are: The Walkabout Puppets on Feb. 17; "Wonderfully Wacky Comedy and Juggling," by Cheney and Mills on March 10; and The Story Book Quartet with Blake Travis in "The Bremen Town Musicians," presented by Young Audiences of St. Louis on March 31.

"We are excited to have some new and unique performers joining our lineup this season," said David Paeth, director of the Office of College Activities. "These new groups are exciting, innovative and still have the family entertainment value that we like to offer."

All performances will be at 6:30 p.m., on Wednesdays, at the Belleville Campus, 2500 Carlyle Ave. All shows will be held in the campus theater. Season tickets for the Children's Series are $10. All children must be accompanied by an adult. Seating is limited and will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

"Rip Van Winkle and The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" is a combination of two Washington Irving fables, creating a musical by the Imaginary Theatre Company, the professional touring ensemble of the Repertory Theatre Company of St. Louis.

Walkabout Puppets, a unique puppet troupe from Oglesby, will present the second installment in the series. This show is unique because the puppeteers walk around on stage in front of the audience manipulating the oversized puppets with their bodies, rather than standing behind the curtain as in a traditional puppet show.

For more information, call the Office of College Activities at 235-2700, ext. 5205, or toll-free (800)BAC-5131, ext. 5205.

Car show roars into Gateway Center

Third annual Midwest Nationals will feature 140 cars, trucks and motorcycles

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Varooooooooooooom.
The third annual Midwest Nationals is revving its way in to Collinsville's Gateway Center this weekend. Between 130 and 140 cars, trucks and motorcycles will be featured at the show, which runs Friday through Sunday.

"The oldest (vehicle) is from 1914 and we go up to 1999," said Marilyn Hinds of Collinsville.

She and her husband, Phillip Royal Hinds, are the event's promoters. The couple were regular attendees at the World of Wheels show in downtown St. Louis until five years ago.

"They pulled the plug on the show," Marilyn Hinds said. "They decided people weren't interested in an indoor winter car show."

The Hinds', who operate a car display business, decided that they could prove that wasn't so. They spent some time scouting around for a big enough local place.

The break they needed came in 1997 when a cancellation got them into Gateway Center. The Hinds keep coming back.

"Every year we try to get at least 80 percent new cars from the year before," she said.

Phillip Hinds is busy getting cars for the show from locations like Chicago or cities in Missouri, Kentucky and Indiana. Many owners are cautious with their precious wheels.

"A lot of people don't want to drive them so they have them trailered in," Marilyn Hinds said.

The theme of the show is "Mopar Madness" and it will feature a variety of Dodge/Plymouth products including the Demon, Challenger, Ram, Road Runner, Prowler and the very rare Pink Panther.

Other highlights include Harleys owned by St. Louis Blues hockey stars Tony Twist and Pavol V. Demitra.

"They'll be in and out and they will sign some autographs while they're around," Hinds said.

There will also be 7,000 square feet of vendor space. Accessories, classic car insurance, Beanie Babies, even body-piercing and tattooing will be among items available.

"There will be a little something for everyone," Hinds said.

The Hinds' traded in their 1953 Packard limousine last fall and will show off their new baby, a 1999 "screaming yellow" Prowler with a matching trailer.

Some of the vehicles that will be on display this weekend at the Midwest Nationals at the Gateway Center in Collinsville.

"My husband decided to go from the very old to the very new," Hinds said.

Muffin Sunley, an 18-wheeler driver from Springfield, will bring in her customized Harley, and Doug Buntin of Avon, Ind., will demonstrate how family values and a 1982 Pro Street Mustang can mix.

"He's a single dad and he's got a baby seat that matches his upholstery," Hinds said.

The show is sponsored by Schnucks, Victory Lane Power Sports of Duplo, and E&M Motorcycles and Bedrock Sprayed Liners, both of St. Louis.

Show times are 7:30 to 10 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $6 for adults and $3 for children.

Oscar field has many pretenders this year

'Shakespeare,' 'Private Ryan' only sure-fire nominees

The smoke had barely cleared from the battlefields of "Saving Private Ryan" last summer when the Oscar campaigns for best picture fired up.

"From that moment forward," said Mark Urmann, president of Lions Gate Releasing, "everyone was searching, looking, wondering what other four films would stand beside that particular monument."

With Academy Award nomination voting in full swing, part of the question appears to have been answered. "Shakespeare In Love" gained enough critical and popular acclaim to make it a strong challenger to Steven Spielberg's World War II epic.

Now Hollywood is wondering which films will fill the remaining three of five nomination slots for best picture when the nods are announced Feb. 9. With a dearth of prestigious releases from the major studios, the critics all over the map and the Oscar juggernaut "Titanic" safely in the past, it's anybody's guess.

"There have been more conversations, more debate about what would be a serious contender this year than ever before," said publicist Tony Angellotti, who is working on Miramax's Oscar campaign. "Pictures that six months ago no one would have placed in the race are now in contention."

That means that small films like "Gods and Monsters" and "Waking Ned Devine" have shots at best picture nominations. So do two films in foreign languages, "Life Is Beautiful" from Italy and "Central Station" from Brazil. That also means that the major studios may be nearly as outgunned at Oscar time as they were in the 1996 Oscars, dubbed "Independents' Day," because four of the five nominees were independent productions, as was the winner, "The English Patient," from Miramax. This year, two studio releases, "Ryan" from DreamWorks and "The Truman Show" from Paramount, are the strongest contenders.

Here is a rundown of the top contenders for best picture at the March 21 awards ceremony:

1. "Saving Private Ryan." The brutally realistic examination of blood and bravery benefits from two elements dear to Academy voters: epic sweep and box office success.

"Ryan" also has tremendous directing from Spielberg, a strong cast led by Tom Hanks in another Oscar-worthy performance, and an equally impressive supporting lineup highlighted by Tom Sizemore in an Oscar-caliber performance.

But will "Ryan" win the big prize March 21? The film has dominated — but not swept — the critics' prizes. It was behind "The Truman Show" and "Shakespeare in Love" in Golden Globe nominations.

Nomination outlook: A lock.

2. "Shakespeare In Love."

Colin Firth and Judi Dench in a scene from "Shakespeare In Love."

Back when "Saving Private Ryan" was riding so high that everybody was talking about simply giving Spielberg an armful of Oscars and calling off the awards show, "Shakespeare" was just a little film that publicists were having a hard time describing. (Comedy? Drama? Costume piece? Ralph Fiennes has a brother?)

But on the strength of strong reviews, six Golden Globe nominations (a tie with "Truman" for the most), and packed theaters, "Shakespeare," which still isn't in wide release, has emerged as the strongest contender for a best picture nod after "Ryan."

'In Dreams' intrigues, then disappoints

Strong acting, intriguing idea fail to save would-be thriller

The images grab the imagination. An entire New England town abandoned and submerged a generation ago to create a reservoir. Underwater images of desolate homes, streets, even a forlorn graveyard. A boy, trapped, forever struggling to reach the surface.

These are the opening scenes of "In Dreams," the new film from Oscar-winning director Neil Jordan ("The Crying Game"). Annette Bening plays Claire Cooper, a mother plagued by dreams of children disappearing and, ultimately, dying. Claire sees through the eyes of a killer and insists she needs a dream interpreter. Her nightmares even foretell the death of her daughter, but she cannot prevent it.

"He's feeding me dreams, bit by bit," she says.

An intriguing concept for a film. Add stunning cinematography by Darius Khondji and one of the most unsettling scores in recent years. Throw in Oscar-nominated producer Stephen Woolley and a worthy cast that includes Robert Downey Jr., Stephen Rea and Aidan Quinn. Great yarn, right?

Sadly, no. "In Dreams," full of beautiful, ghostly tableaux with only the thinnest of narratives to unite them, is proof that all the right ingredients don't necessarily add up to something appetizing.

The movie clearly wants to be a "Nightmare on Elm Street" aimed at the literati.

Claire explores both deep psychological disturbances and her relationship with her airline-pilot husband (Quinn). Dr. Silverman (Rea), the dream interpreter, acts merely as an obstruction, dismissing Claire's violent and overwrought visions of the future (Claire-Clairevoyant. Coincidence?) with psychobabble. A benevolent detective (Paul Guilfoyle) bodes to be an interesting plot device but simply wanders through now and then.

Downey, as serial killer Vivian Thompson, the grown-up version of the boy struggling for air, is the bright spot. With

JUDY ANDREWS/For the Press-Record
Tom Stechshulte and Seana McKenna star in "How I Learned To Drive," which opened Wednesday at the Repertory Theatre of St. Louis.

Rep presents ironic comedy 'How I Learned To Drive' features Seana McKenna

Seana McKenna has played Eliza Doolittle in "My Fair Lady," Stella in a "Streetcar Named Desire" and such Shakespearean roles as Juliet, Lady Macbeth and Cleopatra. This week she steps into a new role at the Repertory Theatre of St. Louis as Li'l Bit in Paula's Vogel's Pulitzer Prize-winning "How I Learned To Drive."

McKenna plays a dual role, portraying the play's heroine as a 40-something woman and then in flashbacks as a teen-ager. It is during the flashbacks that the ironic nature of the play unfolds.

The play revolves around an older man's fixation on his young niece, whom he is teaching to drive. The play explores the complex boundaries of love as the uncle, played by Tom Stechshulte, takes his lessons beyond the rules of the road.

"'How I Learned To Drive' is a play full of paradoxes," McKenna said. "At the same time that Uncle Peck is violating Li'l Bit in one way, he's strengthening her ego in another way."

"Li'l Bit is going a really rough adolescence, and she can't turn to her family. Her uncle was there to help and to listen to her."

"I'm forced to step back and see if there were good things about the man."

As an adult, Li'l Bit needs to talk about her past, McKenna said. "If you go through life being victimized and hurt, that bile poisons you," she said. "Li'l Bit chooses to survive and live well."

McKenna, a Toronto native, has won a number of awards, including a Tony Award for her work as Saint Joan in a Toronto production and a Genie Award for her performance in the film "The Hanging Garden."

The play will be shown through Feb. 7 at the Rep's Studio Theatre, 130 Edgar Road.

Oscars

Joseph Fiennes and Gwyneth Paltrow, both in Oscar-worthy performances, and the writing by Marc Norman and Tom Stoppard is first-rate.

Nomination odds: In the stars. 3. "The Truman Show."

Last summer, "Truman" was riding high. Jim Carrey was receiving loud praise for his performance as the unwitting star of a 24-hour TV show; Ed Harris was considered a certainty for supporting actor; the writing was inventive, the direction inspired; the box office was going crazy.

Then everyone forgot about it. It took a lead-tying six Golden Globe nominations and the National Board of Review's supporting-actor honor for Harris to remind everyone what a good film "Truman" was.

Nomination odds: Almost as sunny as Seahaven.

4. "Life Is Beautiful." Yes, it's in Italian. Yes, it's got comic scenes even though it's about the Holocaust. And yes, it stars the guy who made a lousy replacement for Peter Sellers in the "Pink Panther" series.

But Roberto Benigni's "Life Is Beautiful" is the real deal, a touching, crowd-pleasing import that has lit up the festival circuit, taking honors at Cannes, Toronto, Vancouver, Warsaw and the American Film Institute. It continues to do strong business at the box office.

Nomination odds: If not beautiful, certainly very attractive.

5. Too tough to call. Will the Academy go for a second TV-themed movie in "Pleasantville," a second World War II movie in "The Thin Red Line," or a second Elizabeth-era story in "Elizabeth?"

Will it think small and honor "Gods and Monsters" or think big and go with one of the longshot major studio releases such as "You've Got Mail" or "Patch Adams?"

Will it look overseas and go for "Central Station" or "Waking Ned Devine?" Or will it peer into man's darker places and pick "Happiness," "A Simple Plan" or "Affliction?"

Or will it rekindle its love for Warren Beatty and pick "Bulworth?"

About the only thing anybody knows for sure about the predawn nomination announcement, says Fox Searchlight president Lindsay Law, is that "It's going to be a wild morning."

Religious toys exhibit opens

In honor of Pope John Paul II's visit to St. Louis, the Eugene Field House and St. Louis Toy Museum, 634 S. Broadway, is presenting a special exhibit of religious toys.

"Noah's Arks and Sunday Toys" displays toys and games popular during the Victorian and Edwardian age. The show opens Friday and continues through Jan. 31.

Trivia

Blues" which was shown on Thursdays in the mid-1980s. Those were all shows I wanted to see every week.

Finally, last year on Sundays I would often watch the NFL football game on Fox, followed by "The Simpsons," "King of the Hill" and "The X-Files" for what amounted to five hours of continuous viewing of a single network. However, this year Fox moved "King of the Hill" and usually lost me after "The Simpsons."

This week's quiz consists of trivia about television shows.

1. On "Cheers," what was Sam Malone's nickname from his days as a baseball player?
2. Who played Quint Asper on "Gunsmoke"?
3. What was the name of Tony's pet cockatoo on "Baretta"?
4. From "The Cosby Show," Cliff Huxtable specialized in what field of medicine?
5. Of the 151 episodes of "The Twilight Zone," who wrote 89 of them?
6. Who performed the theme song for "Welcome Back, Kotter"?
7. What was the highest-rated television show for the 1964-65, 1965-66, and 1966-67 seasons?
8. Who plays Detective Lennie Briscoe on "Law & Order"?
9. What are the names of the four little kids on "South Park"?
10. Gage and DeSoto were the paramedics on what program?

ANSWERS: 1. "May Day." 2. Burt Reynolds. 3. Fred. 4. Obstetrics. 5. Rod Serling. 6. John Sebastian. The song hit No. 1 on the Billboard charts. 7. "Bonanza." 8. Jerry Orbach. 9. Stan, Kyle, Kenny and Cartman. 10. "Emergency!"

Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Entertainment and Trivia Show" from 8-11 p.m. Sundays on KMOX Radio (1120 AM).

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, JANUARY 21

The sun's new station in Aquarius introduces a world of possibilities that, surprisingly enough, have actually always existed. So, don't fall prey to the idea that problems must be solved with costly procedures or that magical answers will drift down from some genius on high. Magic is made, not found. And the magician is you!

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Pull away from tired influences to embrace the new. Love could cloud judgment, so ask for advice from one of many friends. You win an argument by remaining silent. Scorpio flirts and means it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). What someone passes on is still a brilliant idea. Don't give up so easily. Potential buyers make low offers. An important contact or ally backs out of a deal at the last minute. Back up plans prove infallible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You feel like complying with what the world expects of you, but this is more dangerous than you know. Different people have different innate talents, inclinations and interests. You're not as easily defined as a lover seems to think.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). A friend may try to ride on your coattails — a very difficult situation. You have a powerful understanding of your own emotional life, and friends consider you a wise consultant. Go dancing tonight for luck in love.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Fretting about how fast you are going isn't going to get you there any faster. Use your time to net work, observe, relax or meditate. Respond to a romantic overture without feeling obligated to perform.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (January 21). Family is a source of inspiration as well as funding for your creative ventures. Travel in June could be a honeymoon. Decisions you make in your family life this summer will have long-range emotional benefits.

Economically, your best months are March, July and August. A move or change in employment around September could be due to the fact that a baby is on the way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The artist in you needs a voice. Try not to dismiss a friend's feelings, though they seem ridiculous. Call your accountant friend for some good financial advice. Passion returns to all kinds of relationships.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). (See HOROSCOPE, Page 11D)

Perseverance is a virtue and also a necessity. Think long and hard about the best way to balance child-care responsibilities and work. Certain employees or subordinates require more supervision than is presently given.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You have ideas, resources and people available to help you keep at it. Find a good time to talk to your lover, and find out how much you are appreciated or where there is a lack in your relationship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Resist passing the blame — it makes you look bad. You'll soon have improved equipment for getting your job accomplished more quickly. A lucky break is really hard work paying off. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You have the power of the purse. Be shrewd, and you can afford luxuries next month. New love brightens every aspect of life. Old friends deserve special rates and discounts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Conditions in a love relationship will accentuate your impulsive nature. Try not to stay in one place to avoid restlessness. Follow your instincts about people; there is no reason to second-guess yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Conquer fear by doing exactly what you fear to do. Quick thinking prevents a social crisis. Someone with whom you appear to have little in common could be a fantastic lover.

Hundreds of gorgeous orchids from the Missouri Botanical Garden's award-winning collection will be on display at the annual orchid show, which opens Jan. 30 and runs through March 14.
An annual event which has thrilled audiences for 75 years, the show features seven species of life-like dinosaurs lurking among the Garden's Orchid collection, one of the largest and most varied in North America.

This year's show is themed "Beauty and the Beast."
Eight thousand people steamed through the Floral Display House for the opening afternoon of the Garden's first orchid show on Nov. 30, 1924. For 75 years, the exhibition of the Garden's magnificent orchid collection has been one of the St.
Louis's most popular events.

Orchids have long been prized for their beauty. The Orchidaceae has more than 20,000 species, in over 700 genera, making it one of the largest of the world's more than 300 families of flowering plants. The Garden has about 10,000 plants representing some 3,500 species, varieties,

Orchids were a favorite of Henry Shaw, the Garden's founder. At his death in 1899, the Garden's orchid collection, though small, was one of the most compete in the country.

and hybrids, including many rare and unusual species that are endangered or extinct in the wild.

Orchids were a favorite of Henry Shaw, the Garden's founder. At his death in 1899, the Garden's orchid collection, though small, was one of the most complete in the country. George H. Pring, the distinguished horticulturist, played a major role in developing the orchid collection into one of the world's finest during his 57-year career at the Garden.

In 1923, Pring spent six months collecting plants in Columbia, returning with 40 burro loads, or some eight tons, of orchids. The Garden's first flower show devoted exclusively to orchids was held the following year.

Orchids are extremely vulnerable to extinction in nature. Wild populations are often over collected, and many species are restricted to a specific habitat, dependent on a particular soil or pollinator.

Since 1975 international trade in plants has been regulated by the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species. The treaty works to control the movement of plants based their degree of endangerment. All orchids species are protected by CITES, and today all of the Garden's plants are legally acquired from growers and researchers.

"Beauty and the Beast" is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $2 for visitors.

'Les Miserables' returns Feb. 9-14

"Les Miserables," the international award-winning musical, makes a return engagement to the Fox Theatre Feb. 9-14 as part of the Ameritech Broadway Series. Curtain times for the eight-performance run are Tuesday through Friday at 8 p.m.; Saturday at 2 and 8 p.m.; and Sunday at 2 and 7:30 p.m.

Based on Victor Hugo's classic novel, "Les Miserables" is an epic saga that sweeps through three turbulent decades of 19th century France. It is also the story of one man, the fugitive Jean Valjean, who is pitted against the cruel and self-righteous Inspector Javert in a lifelong struggle to evade capture. Now in its 13th year in London and 12th year on Broadway, "Les Miserables" has won 50 major awards internationally, including the 1987 Tony Award for Best Musical.

The $4.2 million production coming to St. Louis replicates the Broadway production in its entirety and has set numerous attendance records across the country. "Les Miserables" last played the Fox Theatre in October 1997.

The musical has been seen by more than 40 million people worldwide.

Tickets for "Les Miserables" are $57, $52, $42 and $27 for Friday and Saturday evening performances; $52, $47, $37, $22 for Tuesday through Thursday and Sunday evening performances; and $47, $42, $27 and $17 for Saturday and Sunday matinees.

'Dreams'

choices at crucial junctures confuse things even further. Some parts of the plot are simply dropped with no explanation.
Metaphors gradually grow tiresome.

Bening, a good actress, makes for a believable Claire, but the script keeps putting her in situations that undermine her character's credibility. At one point, after several other near misses, she escapes from a mental institution and immediately causes a multi-car pileup — from which she emerges unscathed.

By the time it winds circuitously toward its conclusion, it feels like a bad adaptation of some Edgar Allan Poe story — with a truly preposterous ending reminiscent of one of the less adept "Elm Street" sequels.

The best psychological dramas about the murderous mind —
Hitchcock's "Psycho," Michael Powell's "Peeping Tom," Brian DePalma's "Dressed to Kill" and, most prominently, Fritz Lang's 1931 classic "M" — evolve and unfold as information is released.

"In Dreams" feels more like an amusement-park ride: It looks really good and feels visceral, but in the end it takes you nowhere.

"In Dreams," a Dreamworks SKG release, was scripted by Jordan and Bruce Robinson. Elliot Goldenthal wrote the music.
